List night Hein took a painter to the house and held a candle for him while he kalsomined the hall. The Block faction took advantage of this to throw bottles and other things at Hein and the painter, and the Hein faction hurled them back. The disturbance attracted a crowd. Several curious spectators who entered the building to find out what was going on were mistaken by each side as reinforcements for the other and suffered accordingly.

Loses Mass of 10st Suffolk street, one of the outsiders to enter, was burned about the face, He charged Hein with having thrown vitriol on him and Hein was arrested by the police and locked up.

Mr. Croker intends to sail next Tuesday on the North German Lloyd steamship Lahn for Southampton. His passage is engaged and he is arranging his business and political affairs. It was said at the Democratic Club last evening that Mr. Croker would sail alone.

Frank Moss said yesterday that he should assume that Dr. O'Sullivan was authorized to speak as he did at Monday's session of the committee, and that Mr. Croker would be present on Friday. Mr. Moss relused to say whether the Cliy Magistrates would be summoned to testify in regard to the statement made by Chief of Police Devery on Monday that the police can't get convictions in excise cases, nor would he tell who was to be subpensed. Mr. Moss also refused to speak of a story which was circulated yesterday to the effect that no persons whose testimony would be valueless in a court of law would be asked to testify before the committee. He said that he was perfectly satisfied with the opening seasons of the investigation, and that he had a vast quantity of evidence at hand to present to the legislators. Mr. Moss and John Proctor Clarke were much gratifled yesterday over the excellent impression which the committee has made in the community. The Chamber of Commerce has promised to aid all it can, and the council of the City Club has indorsed the committee in formal resolutions. It was expected that the Executive Committee of Parkhurst's Society for the Prevention of Crime would take some action at its meeting yesterday to resend the vote passed a week ago, but Dr. Parkhurst was out of town and the regular meeting was not held. Justice Jerome of the Court of Special Sessions said yesterday that the charges made by Chief Devery in regard to excise cases were justified to some extent. Justice Jerome said that he did not think that the patrolmen were responsible for some of the feetive. Ever since Lyman W. He knows a few things about Richard Croker's rule of Tammany Hall and is not disposed to keep them secret longer. The Mazet Investigating Committee, is aware that Mr. Redington knows these things and is considering the advisability of calling him as a witness. This is the state of affairs that is worrying Mr. Nagle and so entirely within probabilities is it that Mr. Redington will be called as a witness that the request for Mr. Redington's resignation may be withdrawn. Chief Devery made charges resterday under direction of the Police Board, against Patro!men Frederick Schlamp and Aaron Hooper and they will be tried on Thursday. However, either then or in the stell between the store and the mill Schlamp was in a saloon "chucking dice" with Beyels Policeman Daniel Borst.

The account furnishes apt illustrations to the old text "Where were the police?" FEDERAL JUDGE RESTRAINS STRIK ERS FROM DOING VIOLENCE.

Court-Judge Jackson Takes Action PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 11.-Upon the application of the Wheeling Street Railway Company, Judge Jackson in the United States court to-day granted an injunction against "John Smith and others unknown" from obstructing or damaging the cars of the plaintiffs. On Saturday las the motormen and conductors of the street car company struck for higher wages, and the bill of complaint alleges that the defendants obstructed the tracks, damaged the cars and committed other acts of violence in the presence of the Chief of Police of Wheeling and his aids, who refused to protect the property. The Sheriff of Ohio county when appealed to de-clined to interfere in the trouble, as did also the municipal authorities of Bellaire, O. The plaintiffs claim the protection of the United States court upon theiplea that they are carriers of mail and are engaged in interstate commerce. It was on these grounds the injunction was issued.

INJUNCTIONS IN STRIKES.

President Mitchell of the Miners' Union on WASHINGTON, April 11 .- The principal witness before the Industrial Commission to-day was John Mitchell of Indianapolis, President of the United Mine Workers of America. He said that of the 398,000 miners in the country 20 per cent., or 78,000, are members of unions All the miners' organizations are located in twelve States-Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana Illinois, (which four States have 75 per cent. of the whole number of union men). Kentucky Virginia, Michigan and Alabama-and the Indian Territory. Non-union members obey strike orders as readily as the union memoers oney strike orders as readily as the union men, and are included in all contracts made by the miners' associations. Mr. Mitchell favored ar-bitration in the settlement of disputes, but not compulsory: public opinion was capable of miners' associations. Mr. Mitchell favored arbitration in the settlement of disputes, but not compulsors; public opinion was capable of enforcing the awards.

Because of the fact that the capacity of the coal mines is about one-third greater than the consumption, miners cannot work all the time, and, as a result, strikes cause them no real loss. In 1897, when the miners were on strike eighty-four days, they worked longer than in 1866, when there was no strike.

Mr. Mitchell discussed at some length the use of the injunction in labor troubles, and said it was the most effective weapon ever used to intimidate workingmen. Nothing has done more, continued Mr. Mitchell, 'to destroy the confidence of the workingmen in the judiciary of the country than the injunction. Miners are law abiding and patriotic and respect the courts, but since this practice of issuing injunctions against them has been inaugurated they have felt that the courts were against them. It is common to hear men say now. The courts are against us and the troops will be against us. They feel that the Government, through its agents, is not acting impartially between employer and employee. The courts should not anticipate that bodies of American workingmen are going to commit crime."

Asked as to the course of wages and prices, Mr. Mitchell said mine wages went down strakes secured some increases. The cost of living, he thought, had not decreased proportionately to wages. He advocated the eight-hour law to give workmen an opportunity for personal cultivation, and to give employment to men now idle. "Congress," he said, "should pass a law whereby the Government could purchase nothing not manufactured under the eight-hour law. The influence of such a law would be far reaching, and would eventually extend the eight-hour rule to every industry."

Another Decision of the Supreme Court in Line with Justice Kellogg's.

The motion of the City Carpenters' Association to enjoin the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, the Building Trades Council and others from ordering strikes to effect the discharge of the plaintiffs and the employment of their own members on buildings in this city has been denied by Justice Giegerich of the Supreme Court. The decision is on a line with the decision of the Appellate Division of gineers, the opinion being written by Justice Kellogg made last month on the second trial of the same case. The contention of Charles M. Beattie, attorney for the defendants, that men have the right to quit work whether or not they assign as a reason that they do so benot they assign as a reason that they do so be cause they will not work with men not mem bers of their own association, is unheld by Jus cause they will not work with men not members of their own association, is urheld by Justice Giegerich.

Strikes against the plaintiffs by the defendants were ordered on the William C. Whitney mansion, the Morton building, the Madison Souare Garden, the Chesebrough and Tide Water buildings and the injunction proceedings followed. It was shown that the plaintiffs on other buildings, had used the same tactics against the defendants, but the decision passes over this matter and squarely decides as to the right to quit work.

Justice Gieserich quotes Justice Patterson as follows and coincides with him:

There can be no doubt that members of irades unions as well as other individuals have a right to say that they will not work with persons who do not belong to their organization; and whether they say it themselves or through their organized societies can make no difference. They have the right by that method to secure employment for their own members."
